Rule 45, Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Subdivisions (c), (d), and (e), as amended on December 1, 2006:

(C) PROTECTION OF PERSONS SUBJECT TO SUBPOENAS.

(1) A party or an attorney responsible for the issuance and service of a subpoena shall take reasonable steps to avoid imposing undue burden or expense on a person subject to that subpoena. The court on behalf of which the subpoena was issued shall enforce this duty and impose upon the party or attorney in breach of this duty an appropriate sanction, which may include, but is not limited to, lost earnings and a reasonable attorney's fee.

(2) (A) A person commanded to produce and permit inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of designated electronically stored information, books, papers, documents or tangible things, or inspection of premises need not appear in person at the place of production or inspection unless commanded to appear for deposition, hearing or trial.

(B) Subject to paragraph (d)(2) of this rule, a person commanded to produce and permit inspection, copying, testing, or sampling may, within 14 days after service of the subpoena or before the time specified for compliance if such time is less than 14 days after service, serve upon the party or attorney designated in the subpoena written objection to producing any or all of the designated materials or inspection of the premises — or to producing electronically stored information in the form or forms requested. If objection is made, the party serving the subpoena shall not be entitled to inspect, copy, test, or sample the materials or inspect the premises except pursuant to an order of the court by which the subpoena was issued. If objection has been made, the party serving the subpoena may, upon notice to the person commanded to produce, move at any time for an order to compel the production, inspection, copying, testing, or sampling. Such an order to compel shall protect any person who is not a party or an officer of a party from significant expense resulting from the inspection, copying, testing, or sampling commanded.

(3) (A) On timely motion, the court by which a subpoena was issued shall quash or modify the subpoena if it

(i) fails to allow reasonable time for compliance;

(ii) requires a person who is not a party or an officer of a party to travel to a place more than 100 miles from the place where that person resides, is employed or regularly transacts business in person, except that, subject to the provisions of clause (c)(3)(B)(iii) of this rule, such a person may in order to attend trial be commanded to travel from any such place within the state in which the trial is held;

(iii) requires disclosure of privileged or other protected matter and no exception or waiver applies; or

(iv) subjects a person to undue burden.

(B) If a subpoena

(i) requires disclosure of a trade secret or other confidential research, development, or commercial information, or

(ii) requires disclosure of an unretained expert's opinion or information not describing specific events or occurrences in dispute and resulting from the expert's study made not at the request of any party, or

(iii) requires a person who is not a party or an officer of a party to incur substantial expense to travel more than 100 miles to attend trial, the court may, to protect a person subject to or affected by the subpoena, quash or modify the subpoena or, if the party in whose behalf the subpoena is issued shows a substantial need for the testimony or material that cannot be otherwise met without undue hardship and assures that the person to whom the subpoena is addressed will be reasonably compensated, the court may order appearance or production only upon specified conditions.

(D) DUTIES IN RESPONDING TO SUBPOENA.

(1) (A) A person responding to a subpoena to produce documents shall produce them as they are kept in the usual course of business or shall organize and label them to correspond with the categories in the demand.

(B) If a subpoena does not specify the form or forms for producing electronically stored information, a person responding to a subpoena must produce the information in a form or forms in which the person ordinarily maintains it or in a form or forms that are reasonably usable.

(C) A person responding to a subpoena need not produce the same electronically stored information in more than one form.

(D) A person responding to a subpoena need not provide discovery of electronically stored information from sources that the person identifies as not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or cost. On motion to compel discovery or to quash, the person from whom discovery is sought must show that the information sought is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or cost. If that showing is made, the court may nonetheless order discovery from such sources if the requesting party shows good cause, considering the limitations of Rule 26(b)(2)(C). The court may specify conditions for the discovery.

(2) (A) When information subject to a subpoena is withheld on a claim that it is privileged or subject to protection as trial-preparation materials, the claim shall be made expressly and shall be supported by a description of the nature of the documents, communications, or things not produced that is sufficient to enable the demanding party to contest the claim.

(B) If information is produced in response to a subpoena that is subject to a claim of privilege or of protection as trial-preparation material, the person making the claim may notify any party that received the information of the claim and the basis for it. After being notified, a party must promptly return, sequester, or destroy the specified information and any copies it has and may not use or disclose the information until the claim is resolved. A receiving party may promptly present the information to the court under seal for a determination of the claim. If the receiving party disclosed the information before being notified, it must take reasonable steps to retrieve it. The person who produced the information must preserve the information until the claim is resolved.

(e) CONTEMPT. Failure of any person without adequate excuse to obey a subpoena served upon that person may be deemed a contempt of the court from which the subpoena issued. An adequate cause for failure to obey exists when a subpoena purports to require a nonparty to attend or produce at a place not within the limits provided by clause (ii) of subparagraph (c)(3)(A).

EXHIBIT "A" TO SUBPOENA TO PHILIP ALFRED MICKELSON

The following instructions and definitions are to be used for purposes of responding to this Subpoena.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. In producing documents, furnish all documents within your possession, custody, or control as well as all documents within the possession, custody, or control of your agents; representatives; employees; officers; directors; attorneys; parent, subsidiary, or affiliated corporations; or anyone else acting on your behalf. This subpoena duces tecum also embraces originals, identical copies if originals are unavailable, and non-identical copies (whether different from the originals because of notes made on such copies or otherwise) of the documents described in this subpoena duces tecum,
2. Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 45(d)(1), documents produced in response to this subpoena duces tecum shall be produced as they are kept in the usual course of business or shall be organized and labeled to correspond with the categories in the demand.
3. Documents attached to each other or consisting of multiple pages must not be separated.
4. Documents are to be produced in full and in their unexpurgated form; redacted documents shall not constitute compliance with this subpoena, unless such documents are redacted pursuant to any claim of privilege, as set forth below.
5. If you withhold documents covered by this subpoena by reason of a claim of privilege, a written list is to be furnished identifying each such document for which the privilege is claimed together with the following information, (a) the date of the document; (b) the name of its author, authors, or preparers and an identification by employment and title of each such person; (c) the name of each person who was sent or furnished with the document, together with an identification of each such person; (d) a brief description of the document; (e) a statement of the basis for the claim of privilege; and (f) the paragraph of this Exhibit A to which the document relates. In the case of privileged documents relating to meetings or to other conversations, all participants in the meeting or conversation are to be identified.

6. You are to retain copies of all documents relevant to this suit that are currently in existence. In the event that documents called for by this subpoena were formerly in your possession, custody or control and have been lost or destroyed, such documents are to be identified in writing as follows: addresser, addressee, persons who prepared or authorized the documents, indicated or blind copies, dates of the preparation or transmittal, subject matter, number of pages, attachments or appendices, all persons to whom distributed, shown or explained, dates of loss or destruction, and if destroyed, the manner of destruction, reason for destruction, persons authorizing destruction and persons destroying the documents.

7. To the extent permitted and authorized by law, this subpoena duces tecum shall be deemed continuing so as to require further and supplemental responses and production if you obtain additional documents between the time of initial production and the time of trial.

8. Each paragraph herein shall be construed independently and not by reference to any other paragraph for the purpose of limitation.

9. The terms "and" and "or" shall be construed conjunctively and disjunctively so as to acquire the broadest meaning possible.

10. The singular and masculine form of a noun or pronoun shall embrace, and shall be read and applied as, the plural or the feminine or neutral, as the particular context makes appropriate.

11. NOTICE: computer generated or stored documents, including without limitation, computer files or data, electronic mail, and information on hard disk, CD-Rom, DVD, DAT, tape cartridge, or any other storage medium, including those documents that have been erased but are retrievable, constitute documents within the meaning of these document requests. An inspection of your computer systems may be necessary to assure compliance with these requests. All responsive documents stored in machine-readable form shall be produced in electronic form and in hard-copy form with the printout date and file name and location appearing on the copy.

12. When used in this subpoena the following words and phrases shall have the meanings set forth below:
